The scope of the Latin catalogues was restricted to a list of officers and graduates, with an index of the latter. Degrees were indicated, and different type was employed to distinguish clergymen, and high dignitaries in school and state. The Historical Catalogue aims to present a complete list of officers and graduates, and also to give a condensed statement of the public career of every graduate, including also time and place of birth and death of the deceased, and address of the living. In the list of the Corporation, residence and date of death have been added. Other new features likely to be helpful are the Index of Officers, and the Index of Residences.

The biographical sketches represent rather an assemblage of information ready at hand than an effort to discover rare or unpublished material. Sources have in all cases been indicated, the catalogue professing to be no more correct than its informants. The authorities most frequently consulted have been :

The above-mentioned Latin catalogues, supplemented by the annual catalogues to date. Information not otherwise credited is referred to this source.

The necrologies published annually in the Providence journal since 1847, though printed in a greatly abridged form before 1860. The use of this source of information is indicated at the end of a biographical sketch by the abbreviation : Nec.

The biographical cyclopædia of Rhode Island, 1881 : R. I. cyc.

Brown University in the Civil War, by H. S. Burrage, 1868 : B. U. civ. war.

Index-catalogue of the library of the surgeon-general's office, U. S. army, 1880-94 : Surg.-gen. cat.

The year-books of the Baptist, Congregational, Episcopal, and Unitarian denominations.

The general catalogues of theological seminaries, especially Newton, Andover, Rochester, and Princeton.

The catalogues of the various Greek-letter fraternities, which often present full, but not always accurate biographical information.

Frequent reference has also been made to the new edition of Johnson's encyclopædia, while most of the ordinary cyclopedias and biographical dictionaries have been consulted in the course of the work.

For information in regard to living graduates the chief dependence has been placed upon the replies received in response to the circular sent out with the Address Book in June 1894. The information asked was grouped under the following heads: Class, full name, degrees, positions held, present occupation, publications, and present address. The replies varied with every degree of fulness and insufficiency. From a small proportion of the graduates it has been impossible to obtain any reply at all. In many of these cases, however, printed materials were at hand from which sketches could be written. All information from personal sources has been marked P.

A dozen or more changes in the spelling of names have been made, on the authority of the persons concerned or on trustworthy precedent. In a few cases it has been impossible to verify the translation of names possessing doublets in English, like Horatius. In certain instances the date of birth has been obtained by reckoning back from the date of death the number of years, or of years, months and days, of the person's age. Since the class of 1801, the annual catalogues have furnished the residence on entering college of graduates whose birth-place is not known. In the enumeration of living and deceased graduates, all before the class of 1870 whose addresses are not known are counted as deceased; all after that date as living. It is an interesting fact that every department is represented by some living graduate; while in a sense it may be said that the direct line of the university's tradition remains unbroken after a hundred and thirty years, since four graduates are living who were in college when two members of the first graduating class still survived.

The work of preparing and printing the Historical Catalogue has been accomplished in the eleven months from July 1894 to June 1895. It has occupied all the time that could be spared by the editor from his duties as librarian, and the entire time of one assistant. Experience elsewhere has shown that a reasonably perfect catalogue can never be written unless the publication of a less satisfactory compilation is first hazarded. The gratifying interest shown by the graduates in correcting the Address Book since its publication a year ago inspires the hope that the present more extensive undertaking may receive like attention at their hands. It is proposed that the Historical Catalogue be issued every five years, the next edition appearing in 1900. The Address Book, meanwhile, will be published annually, probably as early as February of each year.

In conclusion it remains only to be said that the greater possibility of mistakes, owing to the fact that almost every feature of the work is a new undertaking, as well as to the enormously enlarged scope of the catalogue—not to mention their greater liability to detection in vernacular dress—renders forestalment of criticism unnecessary, and enjoins upon the editor only the utterance of an urgent plea for corrections, of whatever degree of importance, from whatever source.

HARRY LYMAN KOOPMAN,

BROWN UNIVERSITY,

Librarian.
